Operational Developments

During 2019, Edita worked to optimize its portfolio through the introduction of new innovative propositions that best catered to its consumer's evolving preferences, in line with the company's wider strategy to solidify its leadership position. Key operational developments during the year included the installation of two new production lines, including a new candy line extension in the first quarter and the subsequent launch of Edita's juice-filled confectionary brand BonBon in April. This was followed by the installation of a new wafer line in 2Q2019 which began producing Freska Pops and hit the shelves in May. During the summer, Edita also launched the new Molto Mini Friendship Pack, first as a special edition for the 2019 AFCON tournament and later as a permanent addition to its product range. In October, the company launched a second candy range under the Mimix line branded Breeze. Edita closed the year off with the launch of its new Todo Max product, further enhancing the company's value propositions in the cake market. The new layered cake product, which became available in December of 2019, comes in four different flavours and is currently sold for EGP 2 per pack.

On the regional front, the company's efforts focused on the build out of its on-the-ground presence in Morocco. In the first half of the year, Edita secured a long-term lease agreement for a 13,000 sqm plot of land with a nine-year extendable tenor on which to build its new facility. In October, the company signed an agreement with the Moroccan government to receive a MAD 15 million grant as part of a home-grown incentive program to spur foreign direct investment, boost economic development and ultimately transform the kingdom into an export hub. With the long-term lease secured and all designs and technical studies for equipment installation completed, construction of the company's manufacturing plant officially kicked-off in the final quarter of 2019 with operations set to commence during 2020.

On the financing front, Edita secured a seven-year, medium-term facility in July from the International Finance Corporation (IFC) amounting to USD 20 million and an option to extend by a further USD 10 million through a second tranche. The medium-term facility, will be used to finance the group's capital expenditure plan as well as growth opportunities in Egypt.

Over the past twelve months, Edita's strategy focused heavily on investing in its branding through strong marketing and advertising campaigns. Edita secured two sponsorship agreements related to the 2019 Total African Cup of Nations hosted by Egypt, with Molto becoming the tournament's national supporter and the company's Freska range becoming the national team's official sponsor during the championship. In parallel, the company's "Everyone's a Winner" campaign supported figures at both the bakery and wafers segments, raising customer awareness of new product launches.

Strategy Insight

Edita's strategy in 2020 will focus on driving sustainable revenue growth and utilizing its strong foundations for expansion to create long-term value. A key focus will continue to be the company's portfolio optimization strategy as it seeks to consistently stimulate demand across its existing segments. In doing so, Edita will leverage its innovative abilities to introduce new offerings such as the recently launched Molto Sandwich and Molto Magnum in the bakery segment. Meanwhile, the company will also explore new revenue streams from new segments in the snack food market, capitalizing on its brand equity and strong marketing campaigns with efficient go-to market plans.

The strength of Edita's distribution network will continue to be a key strategic pillar. The company plans on further enhancing its distribution capabilities to help extend its reach and increase its penetration and market share.

On the regional front, Edita's greenfield investment in Morocco is on track with construction progressing on schedule. The new facility, which is set to begin operations in 2020, is the first milestone in Edita's efforts to deliver on its regional expansion strategy.
